Maths -today's lesson is about negative numbers. Here is a BBC bitesize lesson introducing it. I have added 2 worksheets to this email, one is an introduction and the second develops the concept more fully. Please choose which one is suitable for your child.

Science - I have attached the lesson plan and activity for guidance. This lesson is all about vibrations. It requires a tuning fork, but I don't suppose many of you have those at home! Despite a rummage through my kitchen drawer to try and find something that would work as well, I had no luck. So here is a link of how it should work :

Here is a BBC Bitesize video on how sounds are made and there is a quiz afterwards:

The activity today is to make a string telephone. I will put some cups in the foyer at school if you don't have any for you to collect, also some string. Here is a link showing how to make one:

European Country Topic

Pick one aspect of your country e.g. food, famous people, landmarks etc and find and print out, or draw, some pictures. You will need these for Thursday. Try if you can to find interesting pictures or diagrams. This will be the first chapter in your book, so think about what you might want your first chapter to be about.
